A video of Dr. David Martin speaking to the European Parliament went viral after he alleged the COVID-19 pandemic was premeditated domestic terrorism and a “biological weapon of genocide.”

Dr. Martin said evidence shows the coronavirus was isolated as a model pathogen in 1965 and that by 1990, Pfizer filed a patent for a spike protein vaccine.

Dr. David Martin

COVID-19 Pandemic Was

Pre-Meditated Domestic Terrorism,

Speaks at European Parliament Summit

Dr. David Martin, the founding chairman of M Cam Asset Management Company and an American patent-auditing expert Simon Ateba is Chief White House Correspondent for Today News Africa covering President Joe Biden, Vice President Kamala Harris, U.S. government, UN, IMF, World Bank and other financial and international institutions in Washington and New York.

Dr. David Martin, addressing the European Parliament at the International COVID Summit III, made a startling assertion that the COVID-19 pandemic, responsible for millions of deaths worldwide between 2020 and 2023, was a pre-meditated act of domestic terrorism. Speaking before the audience, Dr. Martin presented evidence supporting his claims and highlighted the historical context of the pandemic.

Dr. Martin, the founding chairman of M Cam Asset Management Company and an American patent-auditing expert, commenced his speech by asserting that COVID-19 was first isolated in 1965, more than 50 years ago. He highlighted that at the time, the virus was recognized as a pathogen with the potential for modification and utilization in various contexts.

Dr. Martin underlined that the virus was identified as a potential tool for biological warfare, characterizing it as a “financial heist” and a “financial fraud” in which the scientific community was manipulated. This presentation took place on May 3, 2023, during the European Parliament’s International COVID Summit III held in Brussels.

In his speech, Dr. Martin addressed the significance of speaking at the European Parliament, recalling his previous engagement with the institution over a decade ago when he warned about the consequences of weaponizing nature against humanity. He expressed gratitude for the opportunity to address the parliament once again, highlighting the increased public awareness and engagement surrounding the pandemic.

Acknowledging his wife, Kim Martin, for her role in encouraging him to share his knowledge and information early in the pandemic, Dr. Martin noted the transition from mainstream media appearances to engaging with the public directly. He expressed his preference for standing among the individuals present at the summit rather than being part of his previous fame in the media.

The crux of Dr. Martin’s presentation centered on the historical timeline of coronavirus research and manipulation. He highlighted that coronavirus was first isolated as a model pathogen in 1965, and by 1966, it was utilized in transatlantic biological experiments involving human manipulation.

The following year, in 1967, human trials were conducted using modified coronavirus, indicating that the development of the virus as a potential weapon had been ongoing for over five decades.

Furthermore, Dr. Martin emphasized that coronavirus research continued throughout the years, including the modification of the pathogen in animals such as pigs and dogs. Notably, in 1990, Pfizer filed the first patent for a spike protein vaccine for coronavirus. He underscored the significance of this finding, disputing the notion that spike proteins were only recently identified as problematic.

Dr. Martin also questioned the credibility of Operation Warp Speed, emphasizing the long history of coronavirus research and its documented ability to mutate rapidly, rendering vaccines ineffective. Dr. Martin concluded his presentation by posing important questions about the responsibilities of humanity and the kind of society people aspire to be. He urged the audience to recognize the implications of allowing the manipulation and spread of a pathogen like coronavirus, calling attention to the lack of global conversation surrounding these issues in the past.
